RENOLIT's Paintflow textured woodgrain surface is the first of its kind.

Paintflow is a new and exciting textured surface developed to replicate the look and finish of painted wood. The surface combines a distinctive new woodgrain structure finished with the very aesthetically pleasing smooth matt surface finish of Premier Matt.

The bespoke engraving of the woodgrain design is very visual and has been specifically created so that it replicates the movement of paint as it flows in to the depths of the rounded valleys, culminating into a very realistic and pleasing effect.

The Premier Matt surface is produced using an innovative Physical Surface Treatment (PST) technology to create a superior frictionless matt appearance that is also an extremely tough and functional finish. Premier Matt's low reflectance smooth surface also benefits from a number of additional superior properties including:

- Anti-fingerprint
- Scratch resistance
- Stain resistance
- Easy clean
- Thermal healing

Paintflow is also available in the complementary RENOLIT 2D Alkorfol with gauge options of 200 micron and 250 micron for flat lamination for seamless matches to complete your installations.

Even better than the real thing – especially for surfaces subjected to extreme stress, the scratch-resistance and stain-resistance of RENOLIT 3D thermolaminates quickly prove their worth.

Uniquely authentic, in seven variants.

Benefit from a growing selection of décor shades, we are already able to offer you seven of today's most popular colours.
